Hi Everyone,

I am new to the site, and I just posted this same message on the RV-9 board; however, I thought it would be of use on the RV-7 thread as well.

I received my quick-build kit last week and I am now running scared that I will not have all of the components I need, engine, prop and panel in time to finish their aiplane in my original 6 month goal. On Tuesday, I spoke to Damian at Affordable Panels about a panel for me, and while listing the items I wanted, he said "Darn, that is almost identical to a panel we are doing for Mr. Jett" I asked them to send me some photos to see if that is what I wanted. After I saw the photos, I said Ditto.

I am posting the photos here in case someone is considering a similar layout and wants some ideas for their own installation. I understand these photos are from a RV-7 with Tip-Up canopy, but my RV-9 with slider canopy should be very similar. My original choice of colors was a Gray tone with white letters, but this beige with black letter looks interesting.

Garry 😊
